FIND IT IN THE REALM:

Below is the first paragraph from The Realm: the Awakening Begins. Underline each phrase that is a sensory description.

Graisia stared in horror at Adan's eyes. They flickered like flames, reflecting the blood-red, eerie light of the darkened sky. His face hovered so close she could feel his stale, warm breath that seemed full of slithering worms. She wanted to turn and run, but there was no place to go. She stood backed up against the wall of someone's shack of a home, trapped at the dead end of one of the winding dirt paths that snaked through their makeshift town near the dump. Terror raced up and down her spine like needle pricks, and splinters pressed into her back from the rough wood. Her thin, worn dress gave her about as much protection as a flimsy layer of onion skin.

Write the phrases you underlined and tell which sense or senses they use. Some have more than one possible answer.
